PROJECT CASE STUDY

300+ Racks. Two Weeks. One Experienced Team.

The Project

CDR Global completed a large data center decommissioning, managing equipment removal, complex cabling, logistics, and asset recovery.

300+	100,482	$200K+
Racks	Pounds	Equipment Value Recovered

The Challenge

Extensive cabling, specialized equipment, and unexpected work added complexity to a tight schedule.

The Approach

Our team adapted quickly, coordinating equipment removal and logistics to keep the project on track.

Complex Cabling

Removed extensive cabling beneath raised floors.

Equipment Removal

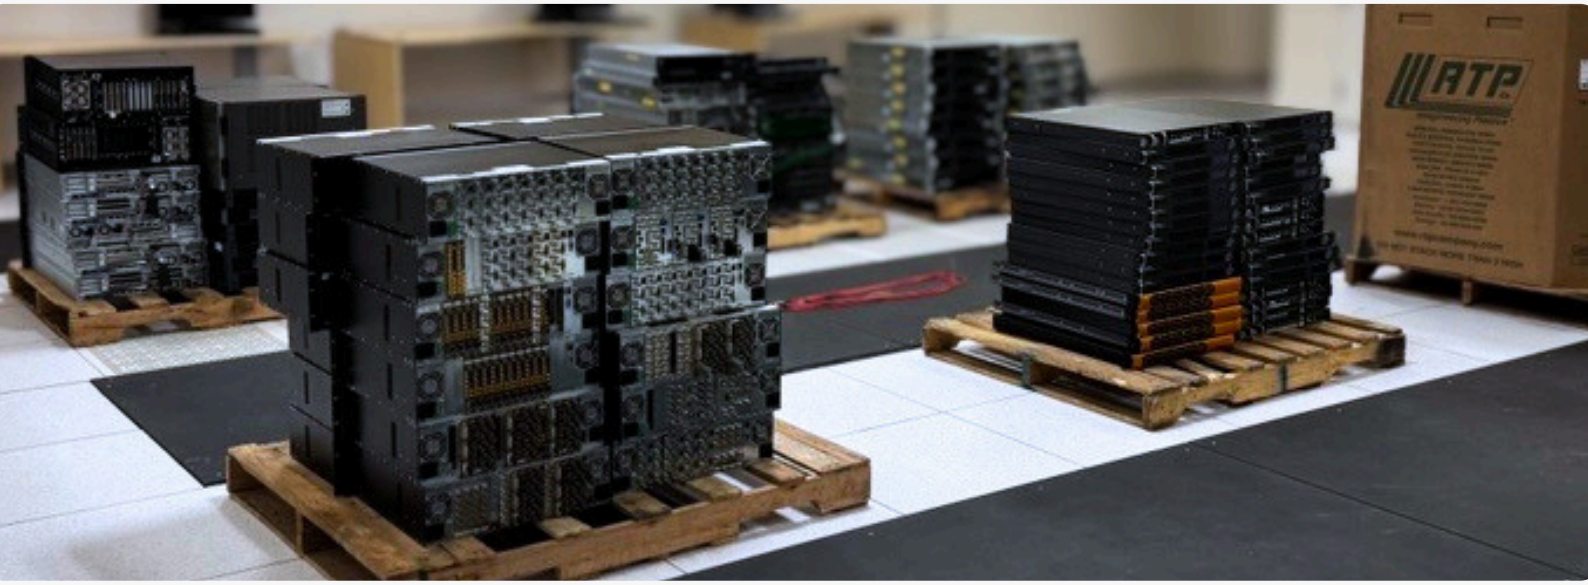

Removed servers, dismantled racks, and handled specialized equipment.

Experienced Team

Worked across multiple areas to maximize efficiency.

Flexible Operations

Adjusted resources quickly as project needs changed.

How CDR Got It Done

Technical Work

Expertise in racks, servers, cabling, and specialized equipment

Logistics

Five truckloads coordinated for equipment removal

Teamwork

Four to five team members on site

THE RESULT

$200K+

Equipment value recovered so far, with additional sales underway.

5 Star Customer Rating

Exceeding Customer Expectations

The customer was pleased with the project's financial results, as recovered equipment generated more revenue than originally expected.

Our team conducted site visits to understand the project's scope and prepare for the work ahead. When unexpected challenges came up, we adapted quickly and kept the project moving.

Beyond Decommissioning

Real Value Recovery

Our work doesn't end when equipment leaves the facility. We help businesses recover value from retired IT assets through responsible processing and resale.

For this project, that meant turning equipment removal into an opportunity for continued financial returns.
